Poly Pals: A CENG Mentoring Program
What is Poly Pals?

Poly Pals is a mentorship program that links new Engineering students with current students who act as their mentors.
To increase the academic, social, and professional success of new freshmen and transfer engineering students through the sharing of knowledge and personal experiences.
What are the benefits of being a part of Poly Pals?

Advice & Guidance
Hearing from a student who has been in your shoes before

Involvement
Tips on getting involved on campus

Professionalism
Boosting professional development skills

Relationships & Support
Having a consistent and reliable source of support

Academic Tips
Developing relationships with successful engineers who can share tips for academic excellence
What are the expectations of being a mentee?

- Meet consistently with mentor during the academic year
- Attend at least 1 scheduled Poly Pal event per quarter
- Be willing to utilize your mentor as a resource on campus
- Be willing to learn from someone else’s experience at Cal Poly
- Be open and honest with your mentor
- Respond to mentor contacts (email/text/phone call)
- Provide consistent feedback to the program
What comes next?

Apply online here! We will email you when you are accepted into the program.

Please note: positions for mentees are limited as the program is first-come first-served.

Check your email during the summer to see who you are matched with.

Attend the Poly Pals Meet ‘n Greet event during the beginning of Fall quarter.

Contact Engineering Student Services at eadvise@calpoly.edu if you have any additional questions about the program!